

Cannelle Lavite

Universität Bremen, Fachbereich Rechtswissenschaft
Room: C2090, Universitätsallee, GW1 28359 Bremen lavite@uni-bremen.de

Academic background

- 2013 Certificate in Criminology and international criminal law, Université La Sorbonne (Paris, France)
- 2012 Master's Degree, International business law and Governance, University Lyon II, (France) and University of Montreal (Canada) -
- 2012 Whittier Law School Summer Course – US and French compared Constitutional law
- 2011 Bachelor in Private law, major International law and Criminal law, University of Toulouse (France)

Languages

English: fluent

French: mother tongue

Portuguese: fluent

Spanish: C1

German: B2

Professional experience

Since September 2015, Bremen University

Research fellow in the Transnational Force of Law project (funded by the ERC) in the subproject Lex Digitalis and PhD candidate – Supervision by Prof. Andreas Fischer-Lescano

Since August 2015, Berlin

Coordinator and researcher in the “Whistleblowers’ laws’ implementation” project – Blueprint for Free Speech

December 2014 – March 2015, Berlin

European Center for Constitutional & Human Rights – Legal Trainee in the International Crimes and accountability program

August 2013 – February 2014, Brussels

Human Rights Watch – Legal assistant, Hissene Habre case

May – July 2013, Ulan-Bator (Mongolia)

Amnesty International Mongolia – Legal intern – action against corruption

March - September 2012, Recife (Brazil)

GAJOP – Research assistant, economic and social rights’ monitoring program

Legal Advisory Office for Popular Organizations, NGO with special consultative status in UN's ECOSOC.

September 2012 – January 2013, Paris

Veil Jourde Law firm – White Collar crimes Department, Intern

Paris, France

Research interests

Inter- and transnational law, including transnational business and human rights

Contemporary democracies and emerging technologies in relation to fundamental rights such as freedom of expression

Business and States' transparency, socio-legal theories.